Calculation of Charges

The development charge payable is the charge that would be determined under the by-law on:

- The day of application for site plan control; or, if not applicable
- The day of application for rezoning; or, if both not applicable
- The day set out in the by-laws.

The City may impose interest, at the average of annual rates of interest announced by each of the Royal Bank of Canada, The Bank of Nova Scotia, the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, the Bank of Montreal and The Toronto-Dominion Bank to be its prime or reference rate of interest in effect on that date for determining interest rates on Canadian dollar commercial loans by that bank in Canada + 1%, on both the deferred annual installments as well on the rates set at the date of application as prescribed by the development Charge Interest Policy.

Timing of Payments

Development charges are payable in equal annual installments for rental and non-profit housing, and institutional development. The installments begin on the earlier of building permit issuance and first occupancy and continue for 5 years for rental housing and institutional development and 20 years for non-profit housing.

For all other development, the default timing of payment is building permit issuance.

Payment of a development charge may be deferred subject to certain terms and conditions set out by City policy.
